And remember...
Most mutations affect one word only	Kath dhu teg (a beautiful black cat)
Dew and diw affect the noun and first adjective	Dew gi dhu koth (two old black dogs)
The word dydh (day) mutates to jydh after an , unn , yn and keth only	An jydh ; unn jydh ; an keth jydh . But dew dhydh (two days)
Horses and stones, like plural males, mutate after an	Mergh but an vergh ; meyn but an veyn
Devils, bardic gatherings, woes and spears mutate irregularly	Dyowl but an jowl ; dew jowl ; gorsedh but an orsedh ; dew orsedh ; gew but an wew ; dew wew ; guw but an wuw ; dew wuw
...and so does the first of the month (the kalends)	Kalan but dy'Halan Ebrel (the first of April)
